

Dr. Fifi Zaefarian works as a Senior Lecturer in Poultry Nutrition for Monogastric Research Centre, Massey University, New Zealand. Dr. Zaefarian graduated with PhD degree in Poultry Nutrition from University of Tehran, Iran in 2009. She has published in top ranking Animal Science Journals and already has over 100 scientific communications, including 40 peer-reviewed articles and two book chapters. As an invited speaker, she has presented her work in number of international conferences and industry seminars. Dr. Zaefarian's current interest is poultry nutrition focusing on nutrient digestion, feed evaluation and feed technology.